NO. 17 AUBURN TO HOST NO. 4 LSU IN SEC OPENER

The No. 17 Auburn gymnastics team is back home this week to kick off SEC play against one of the best teams in the country in No. 4 LSU. The meet is scheduled for Friday, Jan. 11, at 7:30 p.m. CT and will be televised live on SEC Network.

"I hope it's a big crowd," Auburn head coach Jeff Graba said. "We need all the help we can get. It's one of the best teams in the country, and our girls need the energy. I'm just hoping it's a great environment."

Though LSU has won back-to-back conference championships and is coming off an impressive 196.775 team score in its season opener against Cal, the Auburn players are treating it like any other meet. They laid a solid foundation in the preseason. This week has been about polishing up their routines and understanding that they can't come out with too much energy on Friday.

"I think the mentality kind of stays the same as the last meet," sophomore Drew Watson said. "We're all just trying to go out there and have fun. That's our main thing for this year. Keep calm and just be normal."

IN THE RANKINGS

Following a win in the season opener in which Auburn scored a 194.825 to beat Iowa, the Tigers are ranked No. 17 this week per the Women's Collegiate Gymnastics Association.

Including LSU, there are two Southeastern Conference teams ranked in the Top 5. Seven of the eight schools rank in the Top 20, and the lone school not ranked is Florida who has yet to compete. Oklahoma jumped defending national champion UCLA to claim the top spot with Utah (No. 3), LSU (No. 4) and Georgia (No. 5) rounding out the Top 5. Other SEC schools ranked include Kentucky (No. 7) and Arkansas (No. 9) in the Top 10, as well as Missouri (No. 11), Auburn (No. 17) and Alabama (No. 19).

GAMEDAY EXPERIENCE: AUBURN ARENA

» The Auburn gymnastics program has enjoyed six sellouts (7,424) in the last four seasons at Auburn Arena. The Tigers have reached new heights already in 2019 as season ticket holder numbers have risen yet again.

SCOUTING LSU

The LSU Tigers are coming off back-to-back SEC championships and have made the Super Six five of the past six years. This year, they're ranked No. 4 nationally after finishing with a 196.775 to beat California in their first meet.

LSU returns 20 routines from last year's team, including two national champions (Sarah Finnegan and Kennedy Edney), the reigning SEC Gymnast of the Year (Finnegan), seven All-Americans and eight All-SEC performers.

After the first meet of 2019, Finnegan earned SEC Gymnast of the Week honors after winning individual title on beam (9.95) and floor (9.95) as well as on all-around (39.675).

Edney, Ruby Harrold, Lexie Priessman and McKenna Kelley also scored a 9.900 or better on various events in the first meet. Edney finished with a 39.300 in the all-around.

Kelley is returning to the lineup after missing the 2018 season with an Achilles injury.

AUBURN/LSU SERIES HISTORY

Auburn is 15-78 all-time against LSU with six of the 15 wins coming at home. The two sides last met a year ago in the SEC championship where LSU won the event with a 197.400 and Auburn finished 8th after scoring a 195.650.

Auburn's last win over LSU came at the NCAA Semifinal in 2015. Auburn finished third at the event with a 197.075, two spots ahead of LSU (196.550), and advanced to the Super Six.

Two of the top five scores in Auburn Arena history have come against LSU. Auburn posted a 197.175 to beat LSU in 2013 and then two years later, scored a 197.300.

AUBURN LINEUP VS. LSU

Auburn will once again showcase its depth and experience Friday against LSU. The tentative lineup, which only has a couple changes from the week before, features four seniors, three juniors, four sophomores and one freshman. (Lineups are subject to change prior to the meet).

The lineup changes include sophomore Ashley Smith joining the rotation on floor and freshman Derrian Gobourne adding beam to join Watson as an all-around for the first time in her career.

GYMNAST TO WATCH: DERRIAN GOBOURNE

» Freshman Derrian Gobourne made her Auburn debut last week and shared the individual title on bars after posting a 9.850. She also earned a 9.775 on both her vault and floor routine. Gobourne will get her first shot at all-around this week as she was added to the lineup for beam.

Gobourne scored a 9.775 or better on the other three events – vault, bars and floor – in last week's win vs. Iowa. It will be the first time Auburn has had two all-arounders in the same meet since 2014.

The home Tigers will begin on vault where the same six gymnasts will compete. However, junior Katie Becker will be first to go and then Gracie Day, a 2018 All-SEC performer on vault, who secured a team-best 9.850 on the event last week. Senior A'Miracal Phillips follows as one of the top mainstays in the Tiger lineup with Gobourne going fourth. Watson, who also scored a 9.850 on vault last week, moves up to the fifth spot while sophomore Jada Glenn will serve as the anchor.

The second rotation was one of Auburn's strongest in the season opener and should be once again as the lineup remains the same on the bars.

Watson will lead things off for the second straight week and will be followed by senior Taylor Krippner and then Gobourne. Fellow senior Samantha Cerio, a two-time All-SEC performer and two-time NCAA qualifier on bars, is slated to go fourth. Then it's senior Abby Milliet and Day who will cap the scoring for the Tigers. All six gymnasts scored a 9.775 or better on the event against Iowa.

However, the strongest rotation from the first week was on beam – Auburn's third event of the night. The Tigers are ranked No. 4 nationally after putting up a 49.250 against Iowa. Meredith Sylvia led the way with a career-best 9.925, and the junior will once again serve as the anchor.

The two all-arounders, Watson and Gobourne, will kick things off for Auburn. For Gobourne, this will be her debut on the event. They will be followed by Krippner and Milliet in slots three and four, and then it will be Skyler Sheppard, who scored a 9.875 last week in her beam debut with the Tigers.

On floor, Auburn's final rotation of the night, Smith will return to the lineup and make her season debut for the Tigers. The sophomore led off the event in every meet last year.

Following Smith, it will be Cerio, Day, Gobourne and Watson in that order before Milliet caps off the event for the second straight week. Cerio earned a team-best 9.800 last week while Gobourne scored a 9.775 in her first floor routine at Auburn.

STRENGTH OF SCHEDULE

Auburn's 2019 schedule once again ranks in the Top 10 among the toughest schedules in the nation, coming in at No. 6.

Seven of the eight Southeastern Conference schools rank in the Top 20 in this week's rankings. Auburn will host three conference opponents in Auburn Arena - No. 4 LSU (Jan. 11), No. 5 Georgia (Jan. 25) and No. 10 Arkansas (Feb. 15).

HOME SWEET HOME

Home advantage has been and will continue to be a big factor for the Tigers this season as the squad hopes to add more sellouts (7,424) to its growing list. The program once again reached new heights in season ticket sales, eclipsing 1,750 so far. That totaled bested the 2018 record of 1,625.

The Tigers host three of its seven SEC meets at home in Auburn Arena as well as non-conference match ups with Iowa and Air Force.

EXPERIENCED SENIORS

The Auburn roster boasts a wealth of experience in 2018, returning all routines from last season. Leading the charge is a group of four seniors who have been major contributors their entire time on the Plains.

Leading the way is Abby Milliet in her fifth year. The Denton, Texas, product comes back to the program after qualifying for the 2018 NCAA Championship as an individual on beam. In addition, she played a role in Auburn's run to the Super Six in 2015.

Joining her is Samantha Cerio, Taylor Krippner and A'Miracal Phillips. Cerio is a two-time All-SEC performer on bars, qualifying as an individual to national two years in a row. Krippner has been a mainstay on beam, bars and vault over the last three seasons, bringing big numbers particularly on beam. Phillips has brought solid scores on vault throughout her career, making 27 starts in the event.

BIG TIME JUNIORS

The 2019 junior class also brings experience to the lineup this year. Leading the way is Gracie Day and Emma Slaphey as the pair have played major roles in their respective events.

Day has earned All-SEC honors in each of her first two seasons.

In 2018, she picked up All-SEC recognition after finishing in a tie for second on vault at the conference meet with a career-best 9.925. She also put up big numbers on bars (9.95) and floor (9.925) last year.

Slaphey has been a solid contributor on beam and floor for the Tigers over the last two seasons. She scored a 9.825 or higher seven time on beam in 2018 for the squad.

Joining the pair are North Carolina natives Katie Becker and Kendal Moss. Becker, a 2017 NCAA Championship competitor in the all-around, and Moss both have given the Tigers scoring opportunities on bars, while Becker is capable of earning a spot in both the vault and beam lineup this season.

Skyler Sheppard, who transferred to Auburn last season from Arizona, secured a redshirt last year and will be expected to be a big scorer on both beam and floor this season.

SUPER SOPHOMORES

The 2019 sophomore class had a special season in 2018 as all five got valuable experience in their first year.

Drew Watson was an All-SEC performer on vault and reached the NCAA Championship as an individual in the all-around where she finished 10th overall.

Allie Riddle and Meredith Sylvia were Auburn's most consistent performers on beam in 2018 with Riddle holding down the lead off in all meets.

Jada Glenn was a mainstay in the vault lineup, while Ashley Smith led off on floor in every meet.

NEWBIES

The Auburn freshmen class is composed of six newcomers and highlighted by Sarasota, Fla., product Derrian Gobourne, who competed in three events in her Auburn debut.

UP NEXT

Auburn will hit the road for the first time this season as the Tigers travel to Missouri on Saturday, Jan. 19. The two sides will face off at 1 p.m. CT in Mizzou Arena, and the meet will be streamed on SEC Network+.

GYMNAST TO WATCH: MEREDITH SYLVIA

» Junior Meredith Sylvia won the individual title on beam last week with a career-high 9.925. It was the highest score on any event for an Auburn gymnast, and it matched last year's top score on beam set by Abby Milliet. Sylvia is currently tied for fourth nationally on the event.

Three-time SEC Coach of the Year Jeff Graba enters his ninth season at the helm of the Auburn gymnastics program in 2019 and has guided the Tigers record heights during his time on The Plains.

For his efforts over the past seven seasons, the Minnesota native was named SEC Coach of the Year in 2014 and 2015 and SEC co-Coach of the Year in 2012.

Graba and the 2016 team added to the list of firsts for the program under his guidance. The Tigers snapped the 117-meet losing skid to Alabama in February of that season, defeating the Crimson Tide at home (197.275-197.250). Auburn also defeated Georgia in Athens for the first time in program history, setting a new program-high road score on the way (197.325).

In addition, the Tigers earned the program's first No. 1 NCAA regional seed and captured the NCAA Ann Arbor Regional title with a 196.525.

Auburn reached the 2015 NCAA Championship for the first time since 2003 and for only the fourth time overall as the Tigers tied a school-best with a runner-up finish at the NCAA Regional with a regional record score of 196.900. Auburn's No. 2 regional seed was the highest in history.

Graba was named Auburn head coach on August 16, 2010. He came to The Plains after spending five years as an assistant coach at Utah. While with the Utes, he was named the 2009 West Region Assistant Coach of the Year while coaching bars, collaborating on floor routines and serving as the recruiting coordinator.
