TIGERS KICK OFF HOMESTAND VS. KENTUCKY

The No. 17 Auburn gymnastics team stays on the Plains for two-straight weeks, starting with a 6 p.m. CT contest vs. No. 13 Kentucky Friday, Feb. 7 in Auburn Arena. The meet will be televised on SEC Network.

"We hope to see a big home crowd because we need that energy," head coach Jeff Graba said. "We're obviously really good at home right now and we've done a good job in front of our own fans. We still have some kinks to work out so I would like to see the team string four events together."

IN THE RANKINGS

The Auburn gymnastics team moved up a spot this week in the national rankings to No. 17 per RoadtoNational.com. The weekly rankings are based on the team's average in overall score over the last five meets.

"We have a quick turnaround this week," Graba said. "I'm glad to see that we're holding strong in the rankings, but we do have some work to do in a short week. Kentucky will be a tremendous test for us and we need to perform at an extremely high level to be successful Friday."

This week's top five has Oklahoma (No. 1) and Florida (No. 2) separated by less than .200, while Utah, Denver and UCLA round out the last three spots.

The Tigers has steadily improved on beam, moving up to No. 7 with a 49.105 average. The team continues to climb up the ranking on vault and enter the week at No. 16 with a 49.030 average. Auburn reached a season-best 49.300 in the event at Georgia Sunday. The squad remains at 18th on bars (49.015).

Junior Drew Watson is 21st in the all-around with a 39.262 average and 26th on vault at 9.855. Sophomore Derrian Gobourne is tied for 19th on vault with a 9.865 average.

GAMEDAY EXPERIENCE: AUBURN ARENA

» The Auburn gymnastics program has enjoyed nine sellouts (7,424) in the last four seasons at Auburn Arena. The Tigers once again set a new season ticket record in 2020.

AUBURN LINEUP VS. KENTUCKY

Auburn is remaining consistent in its lineup choices, making a couple changes to floor only from last week.

Junior Drew Watson and freshman Cassie Stevens will once again go in the all-around. It'll be the fifth time for both in the category. Watson is among the Top 25 nationally with a 39.262 average, while Stevens picked up the first all-around win of her career at Georgia with a 39.250.

As always, the Tigers will open the night on vault as the home team. The squad is coming off a season-high 49.300 at Georgia last week and looks to build on that. Junior Jada Glenn is down in the leadoff spot with seniors Skyler Sheppard and Gracie Day going next. Stevens is fourth with Watson fifth. Watson has reached a 9.9 or higher in four of five meets this season. Sophomore Derrian Gobourne will anchor for the sixth-straight meet, ranking in the Top 20 nationally with a 9.865 average.

Rotation two puts Auburn on bars and Stevens is slated to lead off. Classmates Adeline Sabados and Aria Bruschi make their debuts on the night in spots two and three. Watson and Day follow and Gobourne is down to close out the rotation. Bruschi and Day rank in the Top 15 regionally with a 9.84 average, while Gobourne has scored a 9.875 or better four times this year.

Auburn heads to beam in the third rotation and looks to continue building on its consistency in the event. The squad is ranked tied for seventh nationally with a 49.105 average and all six competitors are among the Top 25 regionally. Stead senior Emma Slappey is back in the lead spot with Bruschi and Stevens following. Beam queen Meredith Sylvia is fourth and is coming off her third 9.9 of the season at Georgia. Watson looks to continue her recent success on the event in the fifth spot and Sheppard is down to anchor.

The meet finale has Auburn on floor and Slappey will once again kick things off. Stevens will once again be second and then this is where Auburn is expected to switch things up. Sheppard and Gobourne moved up a couple of spots to third and fourth on floor and Bruschi is down for the fifth slot. Watson is set to anchor the event for the first time this season.

GYMNAST TO WATCH: DERRIAN GOBOURNE

For his efforts over the past nine seasons, the Minnesota native was named SEC Coach of the Year in 2014 and 2015 and SEC co-coach of the Year in 2012.
