LAST TIME OUT

- Stanford played well at No. 7 Washington and earned its first win against a top-10 team since 2015 with a dominating 6-0 victory on Saturday.
- The Cardinal dropped a 1-0 decision in the opener on Friday. Carolyn Lee got the start for the Cardinal and held the Huskies to one run on six hits with five strikeouts in six innings. Stanford's offense was unable to provide the clutch hit needed to earn the win, leaving runners stranded in all seven innings.
- Stanford broke through on Saturday behind an outstanding pitching performance by Kiana Pancino who was a double shy of a perfect game. It was the first complete game of Pancino's career. The Cardinal's offense came alive, paced by a 4-for-4 with two RBIs showing by Kristina Inouye and a four-RBI performance by Whitney Burks.
- Kylie Sorenson registered a hit in all three games to extend her hitting streak to 12. She finished the weekend 4-for-10 with three runs, a home run, a double, an RBI and an .800 slugging percentage. It is the third consecutive Pac-12 series Sorenson has hit .400 or better (UCLA, .556; Oregon State, .417).

THE OREGON SERIES

- Stanford is 33-36 all-time against Oregon and went 0-3 against the Ducks in last year's series. Carolyn Lee dazzled in her Pac-12 debut against the Ducks last season in the conference opener, holding Oregon to two runs on three hits with three strikeouts. Haley Snyder hit the first home run in Jane Sanders Stadium in the second game of the series – a solo home run to right field.

STRONG ON DEFENSE

- Stanford's defense has been excellent in Pac-12 play, committing just six errors in 98.0 innings prior to the UCLA series (May 28-30). The Cardinal ran into trouble in the second game against the Bruins (April 29), committing six errors, but were sound on defense in the other two contests.
- While there have been contributions from players in every position, the Cardinal's middle infield and catching have been particularly impressive.
- Shortstop Kylie Sorenson and second baseman Lauren Wegner have made difficult plays look routine and shown flashes of brilliance. Wegner has committed just one error in 242 chances and turned a team-high 11 double plays.
- Arden Pettit has shouldered a majority of the catching responsibilities and done well to manage a young staff that consists primarily of one sophomore and three freshmen. She threw out three baserunners attempting to steal bases in the finale against Arizona State (April 15).

SORENSEN LEADS THE WAY

- Kylie Sorenson led Stanford in batting in two of her first three years. She has continued to deliver offensively and is first on the team with a .369 batting average. She leads the team in RBIs (36), runs (37) and hits (58), and is second in doubles (12), home runs (4) and triples (2).

BREAK-OUT YEAR FOR BERTOY

- Lauren Bertoy is having a breakout season, hitting a career-high .310 with three home runs – including a grand slam – seven doubles, a triple and 22 RBIs. She has logged single-season career highs in hits (39), runs (27), doubles (7), triples (1) and home runs (4).

NOLL PICKS UP WHERE SHE LEFT OFF

- Bessie Noll had a big season offensively during her junior year in 2016 and was named to the NFCA All-West Region third team. She has picked up where she left off and is fourth on the team with a .307 batting average. Noll leads the squad in doubles (13) and walks (40), and boasts a .474 slugging percentage and .509 on-base percentage.
- Noll's 40 walks is the second-most for any Stanford player in a single season in program history. Her 105 career walks rank fourth all-time. Noll ranks first among Pac-12 players in walks (40), is third in on-base percentage (.509) and fourth in doubles (13).
- Noll grew up playing baseball in Tokyo, Japan, and only played softball during the summers of her high school years before committing to the sport fulltime in college.

COWLES' BIG FRESHMAN CAMPAIGN

- Freshman Teaghan Cowles hit .500 or better in each of the first three weekends of the season. She hit .619 (13-for-21) at the season-opening Kajikawa Classic, hit .700 (7-for-10) at the Stanford Nike Invitational and batted .500 at the Mary Nutter Classic.

• Cowles was named the Pac-12 Freshman of the Week after the Kajikawa Classic (Feb. 14), becoming the first Stanford player to win a conference award since May 13, 2013, when Kayla Bonstrom ('16) was named the Player of the Week.

FRESH ADDITIONS

• Stanford welcomed nine freshmen this season and many are making significant immediate impacts.

• Teaghan Cowles second on the team in batting (.319) and has been one of the Cardinal's most dangerous hitters at the plate.

• Kristina Inouye has played nearly every inning at second or first base and is hitting .289 with 19 RBIs, 11 runs and 12 walks.

• Montana Dixon has split time with Arden Pettit behind the plate and has thrown out five base stealers this season.

• Nikki Bauer, Kiana Pancino and Kayler Detmer have been solid additions to the Stanford pitching staff. Bauer holds a 5-4 record, Pancino is 6-5 and has provided quality innings in relief and Detmer has been productive in getting outs when needed.

• Alyssa Horeczko had established her place in the lineup, hitting .400 on the year with 15 runs, a .455 slugging percentage and a .431 on-base percentage. However, she suffered a hand injury during Stanford's final game before Pac-12 play and is out for the immediate future.

Lee studied in Vietnam and Pettit studied in China.
